WHAT'S THE PROBLEM

Having an effective, reliable and secure email system is a basic but essential tool for everyday business communication. It connects staff and clients, it enables collaboration and sharing of data and assets.

And yet the pace of change – from the tools, applications and mobile devices used within a company, to evolving technology and threats from the outside world – can be ferocious. As file sizes and data usage soar, staying up–to–date and managing information can be an overwhelming, costly and time-consuming challenge for internal resources and budgets alike.

The Problem

- ☑ 9–5 support limitations
- ☑ Demand on internal resources
- Hard to scale up/down
- ☑ Legacy systems commitments
- ☑ New technology skill gaps
- ☑ Ongoing, unpredictable maintenance costs
- ☑ Security vulnerabilities
- ☑ Up-front capital expense

MANAGED MESSAGING

In today's business, when we talk about messaging systems, we mean email. It's our major communication platform and the vehicle for communication between individuals across enterprise organizations and companies. At its best, a messaging platform helps us deliver and share information, stay organized and on time, and move business forward.

At its worst, a communication system can slow down users and stretch our networks, storage and systems, while leaving an open door to viruses and malware from the outside world. Supra ITS offers customers affordable, secure and feature-rich Managed Messaging Services that streamline the technology environment and lower costs.

IN FOCUS

Managed messaging service gives efficiency, speed and organization to a company's email and communication systems. This is the result of creating a secure , effective user experience and service with robust, integrated IT systems and infrastructure.
